About me

What drew me into this line of work 20 years back was the realization that a child's foundation years are instrumental in making him the man he grows up to be and with that thought I stepped into the education sector as a teacher with pre-primary children.

In my journey as a teacher, I had worked at the grass-root level with children of varied age groups in different cities, understanding their needs with changing times and identifying the gaps in the education system. That experience encouraged me to later work with organizations that revolutionized & introduced fresh teaching-learning approaches in our country.

I went on to work with various educational groups such as Career Launcher, Indus World School, N H Goel World School, and Rungta Group of Institutions.

My association with these organizations has been in different capacities – like setting up schools, conducting training programs for teachers and creating learning modules with changing times and changing needs, leading school operations, holding personality development classes, counseling parents, participating in guest lectures, etc. – all of which has helped me grow as an individual and in parallel, benefiting the community at large.

As a person who loves travelling and meeting new communities, I have lived in cities like Delhi, Mumbai, Calicut, Bhuj, Indore, and Raipur. This has not only given me an opportunity to understand and embrace different cultures but has also encouraged me to amalgamate the best practices of each culture in my everyday life and work.

I'm keen to learn more and contribute comprehensively to the organization and society through this line of work.
